Getting a Taste of World Hunger

By Jean Perry

Malnutrition is the leading cause of child mortality, accounting for one-third of all deaths worldwide of children under the age of five. One in eight people on Earth goes to bed hungry every night according to Oxfam, an international confederation of 17 organizations that work together to help create lasting solutions to the injustice of poverty.

Above: The Mattapoissett Library had a whole day of programs and activities in honor of Valentine's Day. If you were looking for a new literary lover without all the hassle, the library set up a "Blind Date with a Book" display, where new books of all genres were wrapped up like secrets, waiting to be opened and cuddled up with over the long weekend. Children made homemade valentines downstairs, and we snuck up on Oscar Hutchinson, 5, and his brother Oliver, 2, who were both making valentines for their mom and dad. Their mom happens to be Curator of the Museum of the Mattapoissett Historical Society, Elizabeth Hutchinson, who was overseeing the arts and crafts that afternoon. Upstairs, the library also displayed antique and vintage valentines. Photo by Jean Perry

Facebook Fun Friday

Each week we give you a chance to win great stuff on our Facebook page. Check us out at www.facebook.com/wanderer and keep an eye out for the Friday post each week.

Congratulations to:

Amy Cheney-Spirito

who won last week's Facebook Fun Friday!

This week we'll have a tickets to the Boston Flower Show!

The main message driven home the night of February 13 at the Old Rochester Regional Junior High School's Oxfam Banquet fundraising event was that world hunger is not about a lack of food, nor is it about having enough resources for the entire world's population to survive.

"Hunger is about power," read the dozens of Oxfam factsheets placed on the tables throughout the cafeteria.

Companies and governments control the global food system, says Oxfam, "and they determine who eats and who doesn't."

Exacerbating the problem is climate change, the underlying theme of the event, which has dramatically increased throughout the planet; but nowhere more often are the effects of the changing climate witnessed than in developing countries.

The poorest of the human population are at the very frontlines of global climate change, with extreme weather conditions disrupting agriculture and drying up water supplies, while driving up food prices and plunging millions into poverty and hunger.

As the guests arrived, each was handed a ticket at random and informed that the meal they received would be determined by which class they were given – lower, middle, or upper.

The lower class, representing 50 percent of the world's population living in poverty, were directed to their seating area on the sidelines of the cafeteria; they either sat in chairs or on the floor, eating a simple meal of plain white rice with a cup of water.

Middle class guests – representing the 35 percent of the population making between $1,000 and $11,999 per year – sat at long tables with benches and were fed white rice, black beans, and apple juice.

The minority of the human population – the remaining 15 percent – sat at round tables covered with table cloths, and enjoyed a full meal of rice, beans, baked fish, and cookies for dessert.

The guests symbolically witnessed first-hand the inequitable distribution of food and resources throughout the world, as the haves and have-nots ate their meals, segregated into their own areas of the room, but close enough to witness the unjust circumstances – and smell the delicious aroma of baked fish and seasoned black beans, of which half the people there were deprived.

"It really put things into perspective," said Diane Braz, whose daughter Michaela was one of the volunteers serving food. "My son got one of the high class meals," she said, pointing toward the center of the cafeteria, her empty plate of the white rice she had eaten still in her hand.

"I thought it was a very satisfying meal," said middle-class guest Daisy Noble Shriver, who finished her rice and beans. "I was lucky to be in the middle class."

Ironically, it was the lower and middle-class guests who seemingly cleaned their plates, leaving very little of their simple meal behind, while many of the upper-class guests still had rice on their plates, and a few even wasted significant portions of fish – an analogy of sorts that is, tragically, not very far from reality.

A lot went into planning the evening, an Oxfam fundraising event that takes place all across the country to drive home the message that climate change and world hunger are, in fact, related and both are on the rise.

Kathy Gauvin's seventh-grade students had been studying climate change in her class, and the Oxfam Banquet was the culminating event. Gauvin said that although she spearheaded the event, the students organized the banquet on their own, along with parents who assisted in collecting the food and drink donations served at the event.

Just about 100 students volunteered, either by serving and cleaning up, or by presenting resources to raise awareness of climate change and world hunger, including informative science projects and an art committee who designed and hung posters throughout the school.

"It really is about the kids, and teaching them how to be global citizens," said Gauvin. "It's nice to have parents, students, and teachers all working together for a common cause. It always feels good."

Geoffrey Noonan and Julian Shelofsky are passionate about what they preached that evening, presenting their project on climate change: a poll on how people are acting to combat global warming.

"We're asking people how they can make their carbon footprint smaller, and how to make the world a better place," said Noonan. "And how to make the world healthier," added Shelofsky.

Guest Speaker Annette Brickley, co-director of the Ocean Academy at the Ocean Explorium in New Bedford, said her goal that night was to share information about climate change and motivate them to act to slow it down, without getting too bogged down with the science behind it.

"The teaching message is really using a simple metaphor," said Brickley. "As we are burning fossil fuels, we are releasing carbon dioxide into the atmosphere ... like a heat trapping blanket getting thicker and thicker, causing temperatures to rise." Brickley said this metaphor has been shown to be an effective one in showing how CO₂ gas is affecting the planet.

Upon concluding her brief presentation, Brickley told guests, "We are done with the learning part. You can leave here and continue the teaching part." She continued, "And we will be able to see change, and be able to take care of our Earth."

The Science of Scent

This Mattapoisett Life
By Marilou Newell

One of the strongest memories I can recall is the delicate scent of my newborn baby – 42.5 years ago. I'm trusting that many of you will recall a similar sensory reaction when you held your babies. That mixture of just washed soft newborn baby, sweet milk, and Johnson's powder seems to mix into a scent that lingers a lifetime.

Years ago I walked the streets of Vicenza, Italy for the first time. It was winter and the fog hung thick enough to slice. Damp air was scented with wet wool, diesel fuel, and sodden stonewalls. Passing a trattoria, the fragrances of garlic and olive oil, cigarette smoke and wine clung to the fog. Further on as I neared my apartment building, the familiar smoke of charcoal burning in tiny grills situated on numerous tiny balconies assured me that my trek was nearing an end. When I returned home to the US from my overseas adventures, I was struck by the smell of salt marshes at low tide and thawing earth in the early spring air.

Who doesn't love the smell of the holidays in warm kitchens or a loved one's familiar aftershave? Simply put, our olfactory senses deliver powerful forces that sear our brains with memories we can nearly taste. Science has investigated the relationship between smell and memory, so my revelations are nothing new. Yet I find the subject matter interesting and confess to my own high-functioning sense of smell. Exploring the topic a bit deeper, I share the following with you.

The wine industry has grown into one that teaches lay people how to grade the liquid by smelling it. Every wine tour includes the mandatory sniff test so that one's sense of smell versus taste may suck in the gentle notes of apple and honeysuckle blended with a finishing note of spring air. Something about wine, which I think speaks much more to marketing the product and making people 'feel' sophisticated rather than tasting the wine itself and enjoying the flavor, evokes emotion in us mere mortals. Oh yes, beverage of the gods indeed. (Ripple, how I miss your soapy fragrance and Kool-Aid after notes.) I drank my share of wine while living in Italy, and it all tasted good to me. I wasn't smelling it. I was drinking it. No sommelier I.

After years of crossbreeding roses to produce commercial resplendence, growers finally understand that smell is equally as important. Today, scientists are trying to figure out how to put the smell of roses back into roses. I've noticed that even rose bushes found in backyards have been so hybridized that the blossoms have little or no fragrance whatsoever. Now that is a sin. Is a rose absent its fragrance still a rose? Me thinks that a rose with no rosy smell is beauty skin deep. The industrial bouquets we receive on special occasions may look the part; however, something critical is missing. The humble tomato is part of the rose family, believe it or not, and it too has been negatively impacted by industrial production. Hence, along with the rose, scientists are trying to make the tomato smell and taste like the ones we grew up with. Given a choice, I'd take a tasty tomato over a sweet smelling rose any day, but no doubt corporations will decide which we'll get to enjoy and when. Do I smell the scent of money?

Yes, of course I do. Retailers have used scent-marketing techniques successfully for years. Along with helping you forget the time and shepherding you through a maze of merchandise displays with mood lighting and open-your-wallet music, they have infused the atmosphere with delicate scents to calm you. No, not the low-priced retailers who will go unnamed, no, no I'm talking about the high-end retailers, the retailers who have studied just how to make the well healed part with their cash. From the web site <http://science.howstuffworks.com> we learn, "Scent-marketing is the latest trick to stand out from the visual and auditory barrage that dominates advertising. These scents, however, are a far cry from the strong smells of incense and patchouli at the bead store. They're subtle and almost imperceptible to the unwitting sniffer. Developers use carefully tuned scents to lure customers into a sense of well-being. Stores that sell shoes or shirts, items ideally not associated with odor, formulate aromas of ivy or crisp linen. Some companies even strive to develop a "brand scent," something that customers will associate with the company as much as a logo." So the next time you spend two-hundred dollars on a pair of jeans for your 13-year-old daughter, you can blame your nose and not her whining persistence. Well, maybe that too.

Trying to sell your home? The next time the realtor sets up an open house make sure you bake cookies, cakes or pies and leave the cooling goodies on the kitchen counter. The smell will help transport the prospects into a sense of wellbeing leading them to believe "I'm home!" Heck if Nordstrom's can do it, why can't you? Oh yeah, and don't forget the lavender potpourri for the bathrooms.

Of course we all know that the smell of food is very evocative and that smell works with taste, thus granting humans the ability to know the difference between something that might kill us and that which will nourish our bodies. But what about finding a mate?

Yes, smell is even involved when we are busy flirting or falling in love. We apparently have to be attracted to a potential mate not only visually and emotionally, but aromatically as well. Professor Randy Thornhill, evolutionary psychologist at the University of New Mexico writes: "Physical attraction itself may literally be based on smell. We discount the importance of scent-centric communication only because it operates on such a subtle level. This is not something that jumps out at you, like smelling a good steak cooking on the grill. But the scent capability is there, and it's not surprising to find smell capacity in the context of sexual behavior. As a result, we may find ourselves drawn to the counter attendant at the local drugstore, but have no idea why—or, conversely, find ourselves put off by potential dating partners even though they seem perfect on paper." You can thank your brain's limbic system, amygdala and hippocampus for causing you to say, "I do".

If spring ever comes our way, we'll know for sure it has when the skunks tell us. That notorious smell will waft through your open bedroom window as Pepé Le Pew passes by. Or maybe as you drive along innocently sucking in the cool clean air from your open car window suddenly, WHAM, you get hit in the face with that unmistakable smell of recent skunk road kill. O spring, wherefore art thou? It will also bring the smell of new mulch, fragrant hyacinth, and if I'm lucky, fresh paint in my kitchen. Guess I better start using that perfume my husband gave me for Christmas two years ago. It may take awhile for it to kick into his brain. His sense of smell is not as good as mine. I'm trusting that perhaps with science on my side, he'll get busy by April. Forget the honey-do list, my money is on the mixture of vanilla and musk.

An Abundance of Incumbents

By Jean Perry

As deadlines for turning in nomination papers encroach, a clearer picture of the impending ballots emerges – and so far this election, residents should not expect any significant changes to the political landscape in any of the three towns this time around, with the exception of a few offices here and there.

The last day to file papers for Rochester's April 9 election will be up as of press time on February 19, and so far only two races are being run contested: Board of Health, one seat, and Rochester School Committee, two seats with three contestants.

All other candidates, mostly incumbents, are running for reelection uncontested. On the ballot will be one position each for selectman, tax collector, town clerk, assessor, herring inspector, Planning Board, park commissioner, Water Commission, and Board of Health.

There are two seats for library trustees, Rochester School Committee, and ORR School Committee.

As of February 17, no one returned papers for Cemetery Commissioner, but The Wanderer will follow-up next week with more details about the Rochester candidates and what residents can expect on the ballot.

Mattapoissett would-be candidates still have up to March 28 to pull nomination papers, with a deadline of March 31 to return them. There are still several vacancies that need to be filled: Mattapoissett School Committee (one-year term), ORR School Committee seat (two-year), and six Housing Committee positions, one of them a one-year term.

Three candidates for town clerk have pulled papers, and as of press time, only one has returned them. The incumbents for moderator and one incumbent from the Community Preservation Committee have also returned their papers, although most of the incumbents for the remaining positions have already pulled papers.

The positions featured on the Mattapoissett ballot will be one selectman, town clerk, assessor, School Committee, ORR School Committee, two library trustees, moderator, water/sewer commission, Board of Health, Planning Board, Housing Authority, and CPC.

Marion will hold its election on May 16, with March 24 the last day to submit nomination papers to the Registrars and April 4 the deadline to submit them to the Town Clerk.

Featured on the ballot will be one position each for selectman, town clerk, assessor, moderator, Board of Health, ORR School Committee, tree warden, three seats on the Planning Board, and two seats for Marion School Committee and Open Space Acquisition Commission.

So far, only the candidate for assessor has returned papers for reelection.

Expect the Rochester Annual Town Meeting on May 19, Mattapoisett on May 12, and Marion on May 12.

Marion Snow & Ice Removal Over Budget

Marion Board of Selectmen

By Joan Hartnett-Barry

The Marion Board of Selectmen met on a snowy, cold Tuesday evening at the Town House. One agenda item included a request for $38,000 above the designated snow and ice removal allocated budget for 2014. The Board approved the request.

After a signing of the warrants and approval of minutes for February 4, 2014, the board launched into other agenda items.

A recommendation from Police Chief Lincoln Miller to appoint Derryl Lawrence, Jr. as a full-time police officer was approved. Lawrence recently completed his one-year probationary period with the Marion Police Department.

A request from the Marion Art Center for the use of Bicentennial Park on July 12 for "Arts in the Park" was also approved. The event will run from 9:00 am until 4:00 pm.

A one-day all-alcohol license, on behalf of the VFW for a birthday party on March 1 from 4:00 until 11:00 pm, was approved. Another one-day all-alcohol license, on behalf of the VFW for a birthday party on March 8 from 3:00 until 9:00 pm, was also approved. A one-day all-alcohol license for the Marion Firefighters Association clam boil on March 22 from 4:00 until 7:00 pm was approved.

Next up was a discussion of the Plymouth County Mosquito Control Project that asked if the Town of Marion was in support of their proposed budget. "With the Eastern Equine Encephalitis issue and other insect issues, the PCMCP is asking if we support their budget," said Town Administrator Paul Dawson. The board voted to support the effort.

Another discussion ensued regarding the calendar year 2014 Internal Revenue Service mileage reimbursement rate of 56 cents per mile, which is a reduction from last year's reimbursement rate of 56.5

Dental Disease

My dog's breath is pretty bad. Is there something that I can feed him to make it smell better?

Elevate your dog's upper lip and look at his molars. They should be white and shiny. If they look brown near the gums you should schedule an appointment with your veterinarian to discuss dental cleaning. Dirty teeth and the infected gums that usually come with them often cause a foul odor, pain and the potential for tooth loss. Every time your dog chews he may experience a bacterial shower into his blood stream which can affect his heart valves, kidneys and other organs. Have the teeth cleaned and discuss ways to prevent dental disease in the future.

cents per mile. The rate is effective from January 1, 2014.
The board discussed the rate reduction and had no comment.

A report by Town Administrator Paul Dawson regarding the Federal Emergency Management Agency flood map followed. Dawson said that Marion adopted the proposed maps that went into effect on January 17, 2014. "Some communities in southeastern Massachusetts are not determined yet, but Marion and Mattapoisett are approved by FEMA," said Dawson.

A discussion followed regarding a volunteer to help with the Carver-Marion-Wareham Regional Refuse Disposal District (CMWRRDD). A newspaper advertisement requesting volunteers went unanswered.
Dawson noted that Ray Pickles, head of the CMWRRDD, asked that volunteers have some experience in the trucking industry.

Lastly, Dawson asked the Board to appoint
Facilities Director Sean Cormier as the Owner Project Manager of the oversight committee for the Town House feasibility study. Dawson also proposed advertising and using 'word of mouth' advertising to attract qualified individuals to join the committee.

In other business, the board said that they would like to have the two individuals who applied for positions on the Affordable Housing Trust come before the board and meet them. Jennifer Watson and Amy Wolfson both applied for slots on that board.

The board closed the meeting to go into executive session for strategy related to collective bargaining.

quick work of their agenda Tuesday evening, with only one issue discussed in great detail.

That issue involved a plan by Shoen Morrison of 20 Foss Lane for the construction of a 14x20 foot shed with an extended roof, for which the Commission issued a negative Determination of Applicability, meaning that Morrison can go forward without having to come up with a more detailed proposal.

The work also includes the removal of some small pine trees near where the shed will be constructed.

Conservation Agent Laurell Farinon and Commission members Laurene Gerrior and John Teal said they had all been to the proposed site, which came before them because Morrison's plans fall within the 100-foot buffer zone to bordering vegetative wetlands. No one took issue with the proposed project.

"I would agree that if they were mine that I'd want to take those trees down," said Teal.

"That area is pretty much open save for a couple trees that he's looking to take out," added Farinon, noting that a barrier must be placed around the area of proposed activity and that the Commission be notified at time of construction.

Initially, Green Seal Environmental was to appear on behalf of Shawmut Associates for construction of a recycling facility at 50 Cranberry Highway that is currently in the process of receiving approval by the Planning Board after some changes were made to their initial Order of Conditions.

According to Farinon, a report from a third-party reviewer has been completed, and it needs to first go to the Planning Board, after which it can go to the Commission for approval.

The Commission issued a continuance on an amendment to the Order of Conditions for the project.

They also announced the completion of the pilot phase of a Forest Management program at Old Colony, which Farinon said was completed with "no problems."

"It really came out nice," she said, noting that some logs were left for a future state-sponsored woodworking program involving students at the school.

The next meeting of the Conservation Commission is March 4 at 7:00 pm.

for a public hearing to present the Registered Marijuana Dispensary (RMD) draft bylaw slated for the Annual Town Meeting warrant in May.

Town Counsel Jon Witten presented the first draft of the bylaw on February 18, asking board members to discuss what areas to zone for RMD siting, taking into account setbacks from residences, which left some board members questioning whether siting of RMDs in Marion was feasible at all.

Witten used the standard 500-foot setback from residences and schools as a starting point for the bylaw, reminding board members that they are not bound by that number.

"There is no place in Marion that would fall within that location," said board member Norman Hills, questioning the 500-foot setback, saying he did not think any location existed that would not place a RMD within 500 feet of a residence. "We don't have large zones to begin with," he continued, asking whether or not that would even permit a RMD in Marion.

Board members decided to hold off on deciding which zone to permit RMDs and what to recommend for setbacks before advertising a public hearing on the bylaw, which would preclude the board from making any substantive changes to the bylaw presented at the hearing.

The board will have to strike a balance between being too restrictive and not restrictive enough, so they decided to continue the discussion during the March 3 Planning Board meeting. This means the bylaw will be submitted as an article for the warrant before holding a public hearing, so no changes can be made at that point, according to Witten.

The board already voted to omit Limited Business Zoning as an option, leaving General Business and Light Industrial for consideration.

Witten advised the board to lean more toward being restrictive. "It's harder to entrench, but easier to expand," he told the board.

Also during the meeting, Ken Motta of Field Engineering came before the board at their request, answering questions on storm water calculations pertaining to hydraulic structures in project planning.

The Department of Environmental Protection has a standard for rain water level calculation, known as TP-40, which is composed of rainfall charts for storm events from a 1-year 30-minute rainfall to a 100-year 24-hour event. A new study from the Northeast Regional Climate Center at Cornell University increases rainfall quantities of more extreme weather events, indicating that the TP-40 standard is obsolete when planning for structures such as drainage basins in construction projects.

Hills previously brought the issue up and requested that the board learn more about the newer Cornell standard, which, by the end of the discussion, did not prompt other board members to consider it further.

Motta said his opinion was that the Cornell study was "overly conservative" and could be exaggerated. After all, it is based on hypothetical storms of larger magnitude in the future, as board member Steven Gonsalves pointed out.

"Is this 'chicken little the sky is falling,'" asked Vice-Chairman Stephen Kokkin, "or is it appropriate to [change]?" He asked Motta, "Why wouldn't the DEP adopt Cornell?"

Motta replied that the two standards are based on "two different statistical datas."

The bottom line, as Hills put it, is that the board will not consider the Cornell study and will keep to what is currently in the bylaw.

In other matters, John Rockwell from the Buzzards Bay Natural Estuary Program presented the board with a zoning map that the board hopes to present at Town Meeting for adoption as the official town map.

The current official map was adopted in 1999, and since then the Town adopted some zoning changes in 2006 that are not reflected in the present official town map.

The board was not confident in the FEMA velocity zones featured on the map, especially since some of them are still under scrutiny, so the board decided to have Rockwell remove the velocity zones and focus in on the zoning.

Before adjourning, the board voted to make no comment to the Zoning Board of Appeals regarding the requesting an additional $828,000 in January to $206,000 on February 12.

The price of that decrease, though, will be paid in part with a decrease in staff, and so far one facilities position and at least two Special Education professional and support staff positions are slated for reduction, although White would not go into specifics until the staff was first informed. The budget also calls for reducing a full-time foreign language teacher to part-time.

Of the 27 sections of foreign language, the school would lose three, as the school closely monitors student enrollment in each language course to decide where to start phasing out classes.

The budget now stands at $17,060,000, up 1.22% from FY14.

"This number can be supported in the three towns," said White. "So that's where we are now."

A cut in stipend positions would put an end to "delayed start" mornings, a program Principal Michael Devoll says has been very successful.

"As you go further down the cut list, you start looking at the impact on students," said Devoll.

In addition to cuts in staff, $325,000 will be taken from the excess and deficiency reserve, which would leave about $200,000 in the reserve.

"That is not a good accounting practice," said White, and the three towns have asked White if it was possible to reduce that $325,000 by around $100,000. This, said White, would depend on several factors such as state funding and other unknown final costs that cannot be calculated until later in the year.

The joint School Committees will hold a public hearing in March 13 regarding the budget.

In other business, the committee adopted a 4.0 grade point average system, doing away with the school's 5.2 GPA system in order to simplify matters and make students' transitions to state colleges and universities go more smoothly.

Devoll admitted that the system was confusing for students, even misleading at times, since a straight-A student taking B-level classes could still wind up with a 3.4 GPA in the 5.2 GPA system.

There was a bit of contention over Advanced Placement and Dual Enrollment courses, which will now receive an extra .5 credits, an incentive for students to take Dual Enrollment courses which did not offer any credits toward the GPA before.

Cathy Smilan spoke on behalf of her son Justin, a student enrolled in Dual Enrollment classes who, at this time, excels in the courses but is not receiving GPA credit. She says this disqualifies him from being class valedictorian and speaking at graduation, something that is very important to him.

Devoll suggested allowing students like Justin to be considered by the Standing Committee on a case-by-case basis. No vote was taken to allow for further discussion of the matter.

The committee voted to require students taking AP courses to complete the national exam in order to receive full credit for the course, a move away from the old policy that allowed students to choose whether they wanted to forego the national AP exam and only take the class final exam for credit.

"We don't necessarily view this as a problem," said Devoll, who advocated for not changing the policy. He said it could potentially discourage students from taking the AP courses. "My preference is to maintain the status quo."

Most schools in Massachusetts, however, require the students to take the AP exam for AP credit, and if they do not, they are dropped down to Honors-level credit.

Several committee members acknowledged that it was not fair that AP students who opted out of the national exam received the same credit as students who took the AP exam.

"This is a standard I think we should uphold," said Robin Rounseville. "It's like getting your driver's license without taking the road test."

With the policy adopted by the committee, the AP exam grade would not affect the student's overall grade for the course per se, and students would not have to take the school's final exam for the AP class.

Also at the meeting, after a lengthy discussion, the committee voted to reinstate the four-year physical education requirement for graduation, which will take effect with the class of 2017.

In other news, now that the committee has approved the request, a tree will be planted near the track area of ORR in memory of Dana Dourdeville.

The public hearing to discuss the ORR budget will be held on March 13 at 6:00 pm in the ORR School Committee Conference Room. Residents are welcome to voice their concerns and give their feedback on budget matters.

Plumb Corner Market to Get a Facelift bit of a facelift.

At a meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals on Thursday, the Board approved an appeal from James Junkins, the owner of Plumb Corner Market, to replace and add to existing signage on the business.

Mr. Junkins said that the current signs are deteriorated and rotten, and that he would replace the existing signage, as well as add one sign to the front wall of the building and another to a side wall of the building.

"I'm not trying to go above and beyond [with the signage]," said Junkins, noting that he thought the signs would help identify his business to those who may not be familiar with it. "Identities are very important to businesses [these days]."

"[We'll] do it in a style and fashion that represents the town," he added.

The Board agreed to approve a variance that allows Junkins to go forward with the signs, with the provision that any lighting on the signage be pointed directly at the signs and not up towards the sky to avoid any potential light pollution.

"You've done a good job [with the market in general]," said Board member Ben Gilmore. "It's quite nice inside."

"I don't have any problems with this – I think it's a great idea," he added. "It would probably be very helpful for them to know it's there. It's clearly keeping with the character of the town and the structure that's there – I have no issue with it at all.”

In other news, the Board approved an appeal for William and Anna Milka of 268 New Bedford Road to allow them to add onto an existing barn on their property, as well as to grant them permission to allow a horseback-riding academy on the property.

The Milkas filed the appeal because the barn falls within the minimum setback of 100 feet from a road, causing Rochester Building Commissioner Jim Buckles to deny their initial request for the addition.

The Board approved the Milka's request and granted a variance to allow the barn addition that will provide storage space, with a stipulation that they house no more than 16 horses on the property.

For both variances, there is a 20-day appeal period before any work can take place.

Technology: Improving and Puzzling Education

ORR Update

By Renae Reints

Over the years, the technological tools we use in our everyday lives have been making their way into the classroom. Thus digital learning has become a growing concept in the educational world. It sparks a question: How can we use technology to enhance the education of our students?

all over southeastern Massachusetts – has committed their bimonthly meetings this year to the topic of digital learning. Last Wednesday, at their meeting at Bridgewater-Raynham Regional High School, the students of SERSAC began filming their own public service announcement. The PSA will address the “dos and don’ts” of technology in the classroom.

With the assistance of Brittney Hotte, a senior at Old Rochester Regional High School with film editing experience, SERSAC hopes the PSA will be completed and distributed to school committees across Massachusetts by late April.

Here at Old Rochester Regional High School, the technology council is working on its own project. While snow days have disrupted some of their monthly meetings, Megan McKeon, a history teacher at ORR and member of the tech council, said the council is working on creating a long-term plan for technology at ORR. They’ve researched to see what other schools have done, what would be most useful at ORR, and how they can make cost-effective decisions.

“I’m really excited that we have a tech council with really dynamic community members, parents, [and] teachers. We have so many people who want the best for our community,” said McKeon, “The challenge is – how do we get that, especially with the cost? ... We also have to keep in mind, technology is changing so fast.”

McKeon recalled how the tech council once believed that the huge TV set in each classroom would be instrumental. However, technology grew in a different direction, and teachers are now more likely to use their projector or Elmo document camera in the classroom.

“Technology is expensive. We’re exploring all options on how to get the best technology here, the best software here – but then we have to be realistic too, and we have to budget," McKeon said.

ORR does have a number of computer labs available to students. However, Bertrand Allain, an English teacher at ORR, often has trouble fitting his classes of up to thirty students into one lab. Occasionally, students will bring their own laptops in order to participate in online lessons.

"I think that technology is very accessible because it's everywhere," said McKeon, "The accessibility is partially because we provide it, but it's partially because students are bringing in their own laptop, or they're using their smartphones to do research through the Boston Public Library in my classroom."

ORR follows a "teacher's discretion" policy, meaning that each teacher decides when it is appropriate for a student to use their laptop, tablet, or phone during class time. This is a common school policy, although there are some other schools that have established a strict no-technology rule. That viewpoint would argue that school should follow a more traditional path, providing an education without the distractions technology can produce.

ORR, however, has been managing well with their "teacher's discretion" policy. Most teachers at ORR follow this open-minded view and recognize when technology can be useful.

"Students need to learn how to self-regulate. All of these devices are in their life, whether we like it or not," said McKeon, "If you have access to those three things [a smartphone, laptop, and tablet] in college, shouldn't you be practicing in high school how to effectively use them?"

With this idea in mind, ORR has embraced technology. Families and teachers are connected through PowerSchool; the library offers a diverse set of databases for research; history teachers pull docudramas offline to engage the students; English teachers project documents on the board for the class to analyze.

"We can link to anything in the world instantaneously," said McKeon, "It's amazing."

Allain, along with a handful of other teachers at ORR, utilizes a website called Schoology.

"I find it to be a great website because I can organize all of my homework and my assignments in one place," said Allain, "I feel comforted knowing there's a central place all of my students can access that has access to their work and their assignments, so that when people are absent, there isn't a lot of guesswork, there's always a place you can go."

While many teachers have expanded the technology in their classroom, ORR hasn't yet reached its full potential for digital learning.

"We don't have a ton of technology-based professional development, so at the end of the day I don't think everyone's getting a lot of exposure to the technology unless they're doing it outside of their hours at Old Rochester," said Allain, "That being said, the school has been super supportive of anything that we do want to use."

The most regular technology lessons the teachers see are at the staff meetings once a month, where "Ten Minutes of Technology" will occasionally be scheduled. During this time, the school's technical director presents new software or new tools available to the teachers.

"We talked about things ranging from the really basic things, like YouTube, all the way up to some different websites you can use to do in-class surveys and things like that," Allain recalled.

"Now if we could only have holograms I'd be really happy," laughed McKeon.

As ORR deals with the changing times, they're

ORR Sports Update

By Michael Kassabian

Here is a look at the tenth week of scheduled games for ORR winter athletics.

Boys' Basketball: After two wins earlier in the week against Bourne (82-69) and out-of-conference Pope John Paul II (66-44), the Bulldogs looked poised to claim their first SCC title in over a decade. The boys, however, suffered a heartbreaking defeat against Case in their final regular season game, losing 62-58, and consequently losing the SCC title. Thanks to valiant efforts by Jeremy Bare (17 points), Ryan Beatty (13 points), and Jordan Menard (12 points), the Bulldogs were able to come back from an 11-point deficit at the half and take a narrow three-point lead during the fourth quarter. However, the lead was not enough as Case battled back to win the game. ORR, which was set to split the SCC championship with Wareham, dropped back to second place with the loss, as Wareham won their final SCC matchup against GNB Voc-Tech. The boys now await their tournament seeding in the hopes of winning a state title.

Girls' Basketball: Thanks to a fantastic performance by Michaela Bouvette, the Lady Bulldogs won their lone game of the week against Seekonk,

The goal of Threadfully Yours is to introduce the public to the lost art of sewing. Once taught to students in public schools, it is now a challenge to find a seamstress let alone a sewing class. We acknowledge that sewing, whether for crafts, basic mending or garment construction may not appeal to everyone, however you will never know until you try.

Let your creativity go, join us, and learn to sew!

Barbara Gaspar and Mary Chaplain are offering sewing lessons, beginning:

Wednesday evening for adults 6:30 – 8:30; Saturday morning for children 9:30 – 11:30

At Bold Moves Real Estate, 145 Fairhaven Road, Mattapoisett

Our classes are designed to familiarize students with the basic workings of both machine and hand sewing, while offering reviews to those who have some basic knowledge. You may find, as we do, both a creative outlet and satisfying artistic talent. At the very least you will never again say, "I can't even sew on a button!"

5 Weeks, 2 hours per session, $125.00, pre-paid.

Contact us at bobbisthread@gmail.com or call 508-245-6186* and we will forward to you the itinerary and application. * Cell phone feel free to text or leave a message.

If you have been interested in learning and any of the following apply to you join us. You may find a hidden talent you never suspected was there!

I have never done this before

- ☐ Simple stitching by hand
- ☐ Basic knowledge of machine sewing
- ☐ knew once but forgot most of it
- ☐ I can sew but would a review and encouragement
- ☐ looking for a productive social night out defeating the Lady Warriors with a score of 54-42. Bouvette scored a team-high 20 points on the night, with Morgan Browning providing a key nine points from the paint. Freshman Olivia Labbe also played well, joining Bouvette in double digits with ten points. The win puts the Lady Bulldogs at a 6-12 standing, which will not be enough to get them into the playoffs.

Boys' Track: Competing at the annual Division 5 Championships, the Bulldogs finished in second place for the entire division, an impressive feat considering the fact that they only had eight boys qualify for the meet. The MVP for the Bulldogs was Kevin Saccone, who won his first ever state title in the hurdles with a time of 7.84 seconds, and placed second in the long-jump, setting a school record of 21 feet, 3.25 inches. Saccone also ran on the 4x200 team with teammates Ben Dion, Chris Demers, and Colin Knapton, which finished fourth in 1:36. Knapton also had a great day, placing second in the 300-meter dash (36.52 seconds) and sixth in the high-jump (5'8"). Knapton, Saccone, and possibly the boys 4x200 relay team will be competing at the All State Meet on Saturday, February 22 at the Reggie Lewis Center in Boston.

Girls' Track: The girls also competed at the Division 5 Championships this week, where they managed to put together a fifth place performance. Leading the way was the girls' 4x200-meter relay, comprised of Abby Adams, Paige Santos, Morgan

To the Editor:

On behalf of the ORRJHS seventh grade teachers and students, I would like to express our appreciation to our parents: Kelly Horton, Rania Lavranos-Judd, Diane St. Pierre and Christine Winters. With their support and hard work, a vision of the ORRJHS Oxfam Hunger Banquet came to be. This group of parents made the educational event possible and a memorable experience for our students. We would also like to thank Annette Brickley, Education Manager at the New Bedford Ocean Explorium. The research she presented, along with a call for action, was motivating for all. For all those who attended and assisted in any way, we appreciate the support and willingness to lend a helping hand.

*With gratitude,
Kathryn Gauvin,*

Fire Fighters Clam Boil

The Marion Fire Fighters Association is holding its annual winter clam boil Saturday, March 22. This year's event will be held at the Marion VFW Post 2425, 465 Mill St (Route 6), and will feature a traditional winter seafood dinner, raffle prizes, and a cash alcohol bar. There will be a Raw Bar available at 6:00 pm, dinner served at 7:00 pm. Tickets are $25 each and available from Association members or by calling Ron Auld at 774-263-2589 or Brooks Wilson at 508-728-0840. The deadline to purchase tickets is Saturday, March 15. We look forward to seeing you there.

Last Tuesday of the Month Free Movie

Blue Jasmine (PG-13, 98 min.) will be shown at the Mattapoisett Senior Center on Tuesday, February 25 at 12:00 pm. The movie is free, pizza (two slices) is $2, prepaid. Stop by the Senior Center at Center School, Barstow St, by February 24 to pay for your pizza and to reserve your seat.

Cate Blanchett stars as a rich, spoiled, NY socialite who suddenly finds herself betrayed by her husband and is forced to seek refuge with her blue collar sister. Woody Allen directs this ensemble cast, and it is the tour de force performance of Blanchett, who is the star of this film. There are reflections of "A Streetcar Named Desire" that

Hidden Treasures Appraisal Day

The Friends of the Mattapoisett Library is hosting its own version of "Antiques Roadshow" on March 29 from 10:00 am to 2:00 pm in the meeting room at the Mattapoisett Free Public Library, 7 Barstow Street.

Frank McNamee of Marion Antique Shop, Marion
Antique Auctions and Frank H. McNamee Certified Estate Appraisals, will be on hand to evaluate your favorite treasures such as paintings, prints, silver, furniture,
Oriental rugs, books, glass and china and nautical items.
Frank's assistant, Paula Deane, estate jewelry specialist, will be appraising jewelry and collectibles.

Frank McNamee's qualifications include 35 years in the antiques business and 25 years of appraisal experience. Frank is a graduate of the Henry Francis DuPont Winterthur Institute program on American Furniture and Decorative Arts; he also has a Bachelor of Arts degree in American History from Providence
College, a degree in Marketing from Bridgewater State College and is a member in good standing of the New England Appraisers Association. He has completed a course on Appraisal Studies, as well as Uniform Standards of Appraisal Practice Course (USPAP) at Rhode Island School of Design.

Paula Deane, of Sandwich, has been in the antiques and appraisal business for over 30 years. She is a general antiques dealer who specializes in vintage jewelry.

The cost is $5 per item to be appraised, with a

Members of the Friends will be on hand to talk with patrons about membership and to provide refreshments. As always, your donations support the library, its programs and services.

BWAA Offers Art Scholarships

The Bourne Wareham Art Association has art scholarships available to graduating high school seniors living in Bourne, Wareham, Falmouth, Pocasset, Rochester, Lakeville, Plymouth, Sandwich, Buzzards Bay, Berkley, Marion, Hyannis, Newton Center, Concord and Onset, who are planning to further their art education. In past years, these BWAA Art Achievement Awards have been given to Bourne and Wareham students who plan to pursue an art career. They now also include seniors from all communities where BWAA members reside.

More information about these Art Achievement Awards and applications may be obtained from the art department of your school or by contacting Betty Beaulieu, brbolo@comcast.net, P.O. Box 171, Rochester, MA 02770 or 508-763-2724. Applications are due by April

1. Applicants will be required to present their portfolio of eight to twelve pieces to the members for judging at the April 12 meeting of the Art Association at the Wareham Library at 12:00 pm.

(mystery, biography, true crime, romance, and more), and they have been selected with adults and young adults in mind. There is a mixture of fiction and non-fiction, with just a little hint of what you're getting into. Anonymous library barcodes are on the outside so patrons can check out their dates. Take one home, relax, and give your choice an opportunity to make an impression. You never know until you give it a chance. If you don't like your book, bring it back and try another.

In addition, there's a perk for "rating your date." Fill out the rating form included in your package to let others know how your book appealed to you ... or didn't. Bring the form back to the library, and for each rating slip, you will be entered into a free drawing for one of three prizes: A movie gift certificate with movie snacks; a $25 iTunes gift card; or, a $20 gift certificate to Nick's Pizza. Forms need to be returned by March 17, St. Patrick's Day! Lucky you!

How's that for a sweet deal? So kick off the Valentine's Day weekend with a new friend. You never know what might develop.

ANNIVERSARIES • BIRTHS • ENGAGEMENTS • OBITUARIES • WEDDINGS • SPECIAL EVENTS

Obituaries:

Miriam F. (Ledger) Sylvia, 85, of Wareham, formerly of Marion and New Bedford, died Feb. 12, 2014 in the Forestview Nursing Home, Wareham. She was the widow of the late James Sylvia and the daughter of the late Philip and Cora (Parker) Ledger.

She was born in New Bedford and lived in Marion, Fairhaven and New Bedford for many years.

Mrs. Sylvia owned and operated Jimmy's Sub Shop on Union St. in New Bedford for many years before retiring.

She enjoyed playing the guitar and singing. She was a member of the Ladies Auxiliary VFW Post in Fairhaven.

Survivors include 2 sons, James Sylvia, Jr. of Wareham and Randall Sylvia of Freetown; 3 grandchildren, Andrea Sylvia, James Sylvia, III and Randall Sylvia; many great grandchildren; a brother, Paul Ledger of FL; a sister, Evelyn Stuart of New Bedford; many nephews and nieces including Sandy Braga of New Bedford.

Her funeral and visiting hours were held on Tuesday, Feb. 18, 2014 in the Chapman, Cole & Gleason Funeral Home, 2599 Cranberry Hwy., Wareham. Burial followed in Evergreen Cemetery, Marion.

Anthony Frank Souza of Mattapoisett and formerly of Orlando, FL was born in Falmouth on October 19, 1921. He was the son of Antone and Mary (Roberts) Souza of East Falmouth where he resided. Anthony passed away peacefully on the morning of February 13, 2014 at the age of 92.

In January 1942 he enlisted in the US Marine Corps. He served in WWII in the Asia-Pacific area from May 1942-April 1944. Wounded in the Guadalcanal engagement in Nov. 1942 and again later in Gloucester, New Britain in Jan. 1944, he was given an honorable discharge in Dec. 1946 where he received the Purple Heart Medal with the Gold Star for his bravery and service.

When he was discharged from the USMC, he worked as a drycleaner for ACME Laundry in Yarmouth, MA for 33 years. He was then employed by Walt Disney World in Orlando, FL as a drycleaner specialist for 10 years, retiring in 1987.

He is survived by his wife of 69 years, Sophie (Lopes) Souza. He is also survived by his daughter Deborah (Souza) Giokas of Mattapoisett, MA. He leaves behind three grandchildren: Kristen (Giokas) Torres (Matthew Torres) of Marion, MA, Matthew Giokas of Charlestown, MA and Andrea Giokas of Mattapoisett, MA. He also leaves behind a great-granddaughter, Kaedence Sophia Torres of Marion, MA and great-grandson, Nicholas Anthony Giokas of Mattapoisett, MA. He is also survived by his many nieces and nephews.

Anthony and his wife traveled the country in their camper including a trip from Florida to Alaska. He enjoyed their summer trips to the Cape spending time with family and friends.

Burial with Military Honors will be held at the Massachusetts National Cemetery, Bourne at a later date.

Arrangements under the direction of the Nickerson-Bourne Funeral Home of Bourne.

Suzann Serpa, 73, lifelong resident of Marion, died Feb. 13, 2014 at Mass General Hospital, Boston. She was the daughter of the late Albert and Bertha (Coggeshall) Serpa.

She was born in Middleboro and lived in Marion for her entire life.

Suzann graduated from Wareham High School with the Class of 1958. After high school she worked for several insurance companies and Upper Cape Realty for many years until her retirement four years ago.

Suzann was kind to everyone she met. She loved to cook, and enjoyed cleaning, going to the beach, and fixing things around the house. Suzann was always ambitious, and could do almost anything.

Suzann is survived by her sister Sallee Serpa of Marion, and many cousins.

Her funeral was held on Wednesday, Feb. 19, 2014 at the First Congregational Church, 28 Main St., Marion. Burial followed in Evergreen Cemetery, Marion.

Visiting hours were held on Tuesday, February 18, 2014 at the Chapman, Cole & Gleason Funeral Home, 2599 Cranberry Hwy. (rt. 28), Wareham.

Cecile C. Charest-Dubois, 87, of New Bedford passed away peacefully February 13, 2014 at Forestview Nursing Home, Wareham, surrounded by her family.

Survivors include, her only daughter Norma Charest and companion Don Cantari of Rochester, as well as 3 sons Paul Charest and his wife Donna, Donald Charest and his wife Nancy, both from Rochester and Raymond Charest of Dartmouth.

She is also survived by her brother Raymond Lemieux of Mattapoisett, her sister Rolande Begin of New Bedford, and her sister Rita Silva of Brandenton, FL, and her 10 Grandchildren, 15 great grandchildren, and many nieces and nephews. She was predeceased in death by her first husband, Normand J. Charest and her second husband, Alphonse N. Dubois.

Cecile enjoyed gardening, and camping with her husband Alphonse.

Join the PMC Mission to Fight Cancer

To know someone who has been affected by cancer is a scary and heart-wrenching experience for an adult, let alone a child. By starting a Pan-Mass Challenge (PMC) Kids Ride in your area, you can provide children, ages 2 to 15, with the opportunity to join the PMC mission.

PMC Kids Rides are spokes in the wheel for the PMC. The PMC is an annual bike-a-thon that raises money to support adult and pediatric patient care and cancer research at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through the Jimmy Fund. From a short obstacle course for tykes on tricycles to a 26-mile trek, PMC Kids Rides vary in course, mileage and set-up. Some have music, games and food. Others have silent auctions, character appearances and face painting. All PMC Kids Rides offer a way for children to participate as young philanthropists by actively

The PMC is looking for volunteer coordinators to start PMC Kids Rides in Mattapoisett. PMC Kids Rides can be held in a school parking lot, a park, or anywhere there are safe roads. A PMC staff member will be there to support coordinators throughout the planning process with regard to logistics, signage, rider recruitment, promotion and fundraising. Coordinators are able to choose the date of their ride and make their own event a fun and unique experience for families, volunteers and supporters alike. They can involve local businesses to provide food and entertainment and to help spread the PMC's mission by word-of-mouth and through social media.

MOVIE REVIEW

Laws of Nature

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

The Wind Rises.* With the voices of Joseph Gordon-Levitt and Emily Blunt. Directed by Hayao Miyazaki. Running time: 126 minutes. MPAA rating: PG-13.

The Wind Rises, which may or may not be the swan song of master animator Hayao Miyazaki, begins with a dream of flight. It's early in the 20th century, and young Jiro Horikoshi wants to fly airplanes. His poor eyesight blocks him from being a pilot, so he settles for designing planes. Throughout the movie, Jiro confers with legendary aeronautical engineer Giovanni Caproni in their "shared dreams" of conquering the skies. The Wind Rises may be the most "realistic" feature Miyazaki has ever made — it lacks Miyazaki's standard nature spirits and fanciful animals — but it's still a humble tribute to imagination and creativity, and it unfolds in a gentle universe formed by nature and deformed by humans.

Jiro Horikoshi was an actual engineer; he designed the Mitsubishi A6M Zero, which caused the Allies (and Pearl Harbor) so much grief in World War II. But this is not meant to be taken as a too-literal biography. Miyazaki mashes up Jiro's life with Tatsuo Hori's short story "The Wind Has Risen," about a woman with tuberculosis (a disease Hori suffered with). Thus, Jiro is given a wife, Naoko, who has tuberculosis. To Miyazaki, I think, Naoko represents the innocence that would soon die in the inferno of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. "Japan," says a German ex-pat to Jiro, "will blow up." Miyazaki may be saying that if we don't blame Oppenheimer and his brothers in the Manhattan Project for the A-bomb and how the military used it, so we shouldn't blame Jiro for the Zero and how the military used it. In part, The Wind Rises is a tragedy about dreams bent to the will of mass murder.

Miyazaki may not have as much fantasy imagery to conjure with this time — that's pretty much limited to Jiro's dreamscapes — but The Wind Rises is still world-class animation, with obsessive attention lavished on the smallest, subtlest things: the flush rivets in an airplane hull; a bowl of watercress salad; moths flitting about a streetlight overlooking Jiro and Naoko. The Great Kanto Earthquake of 1923 is realized with an almost spiritual horror, accompanied by vocal effects that sound like the groaning of an angry Gaia. Miyazaki doesn't show us the casualties, just the wreckage of houses built by men who presumed to claim a patch of Earth as their own. It's a warning to Jiro — who is on his way to university by train when the quake hits — that human minds, however advanced and well-educated, cannot master nature and her whims.

Far from being an apologia for a man who enabled death, The Wind Rises is the story of an artist/scientist who only wanted to make beautiful airplanes, but happened to be born in a time and country that hampered every effort and ambition on the anvil of war. At one point Jiro quips that the planes would be lighter if the weapons were left out. His spiritual mentor Caproni says that planes shouldn't be built for war or money, and Miyazaki seems to endorse this. We spend most of our time with Jiro and fellow engineers, some of whom, like his grouchy boss Kurokawa, sternly keep the engineers on the track to military accomplishment, but most likely because that's what the culture of Japan at that time demanded. Kurokawa also presides tearfully over the quick wedding of Jiro and Naoko, so he hasn't been completely lost to the machinery of war.

Naoko is no Princess Mononoke, defiantly spitting blood and doing battle on behalf of nature; she's a blank signifier of Japanese suffering. That's about the only bummer here. Miyazaki is more concerned here with the conflict of feminine and masculine in one WWII-era male, the conflict between beauty and destruction. "The only excuse for making a useless thing," wrote Oscar Wilde, "is that one admires it intensely. All art is quite useless." The Wind Rises says that when art is made useful — mostly for the purposes of war — the earth trembles; some law of nature has been shattered. (Many guns, too, are masterpieces of design. Not to mention swords.) Miyazaki, not yet a year old when some of Jiro's artwork strafed Pearl Harbor, has made a tragic epic about what happens when the spirit of creativity is put to corrupt usefulness.

"Planning a PMC Kids Ride has proven to be such a rewarding experience for all those involved," says Denise Singleton, coordinator of the PMC Westwood Kids Ride. "With so many families in town affected by cancer in some way, I realized that there is a real need for people to come together and show their support. The PMC is an amazing organization and I feel good knowing that I am playing an important role by providing an outlet where kids can feel empowered when they might otherwise feel helpless."

The original PMC Kids Ride sprouted as a grassroots effort in 1998 when 13 children rode around their Medfield neighborhood 25 times and raised $1,600 for the PMC. During the past 14 years, PMC Kids Rides have continued to form throughout New England and beyond as parents and children invite neighbors with tricycles, training wheels and two-wheelers to get involved. Since the program's inception, young cyclists have raised more than $5.5 million. This year's goal is to raise $900,000.

Cyclists of varying experience levels can ride as individuals or as part of a team. Many cyclists ride in honor of a family member or friend who is fighting or has lost his or her life to cancer. Help children in your town honor loved ones and make an impact in the community by starting a PMC Kids Ride.

For more information about the PMC Kids Rides program, to start a ride in your area, or participate in an existing ride, visit www.kids.pmc.org or call Justine Darmanian at 781-449-5300 for spring 2014 rides.

TriTOWN HAPPENINGS

At the Old Rochester Regional Junior High School on February 13, guests of the Oxfam fundraising banquet got a taste of world hunger when they symbolically experienced the inequitable distribution of wealth and resources during a dinner of either just rice, rice or beans, or a full meal of rice, beans, and baked fish, determined at random by which ticket guests received at the door. Those eating rice and sitting on the floor or simply in chairs represented the majority of people on the planet, roughly 50% of the human population. The middle 35% sat at simple tables, while the upper 15% dined at tables with tablecloths and a full meal. Just about 100 students volunteered for the event, serving food, cleaning up, and also displaying science projects they created to raise awareness of climate change and how people can lessen their carbon footprints. The students themselves organized and coordinated the event with the help of ORRJHS teacher Kathy Gauvin. "It really is about the kids and teaching them to be global citizens," said Gauvin. Germany's Difficult History

Why did Germany fly off the rails, and how could her history have been different? On Thursday, February 20 at the Marion Music Hall (164 Front Street) at 7:00 pm, Dr. Kirtland Mead will explore this provocative question. In this centennial year of World War I, any student of European or world history must ask why Germany – which had been so civilized and orderly – became unstable around 1900 and led Europe into the two world wars.

During his presentation, Dr. Mead will 'unpack' German history, beginning with the Roman Empire, proceeding through the key medieval and early modern centuries, and culminating in the 19th century leading up to 1914. After identifying the key developments and decision points and their consequences, he will draw lessons for the challenges of achieving political development and stability today outside the developed West. Mead's insights are based on an academic, professional, and personal involvement with Germany extending back to the 1960s.

This presentation (originally scheduled for February 13) is co-sponsored by the Sippican Historical Society and the Elizabeth Taber Library, and is offered to the public free of charge. SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Some unsettling facts about a past situation could come to light. And while you'd love to deal with it immediately, it's best to get more information to support your case.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A straightforward approach to a baffling situation is best. Don't allow yourself to be drawn into an already messy mass of tangles and lies. Deal with it and move on.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Don't be discouraged or deterred by a colleague's negative opinion about your ideas. It could actually prove to be helpful when you get around to finalizing your plan.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Ignore that sudden attack of "modesty," and step up to claim the credit you've so rightly earned. Remember: A lot of people are proud of you and want to share in your achievement.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A financial "deal" that seems to be just right for you Leos and Leonas could be grounded more in gossamer than substance. Get an expert's advice to help you check it out.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Don't ignore that suddenly cool or even rude attitude from someone close to you. Asking for an explanation could reveal a misunderstanding you were completely unaware of.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Unless you have sound knowledge, and not just an opinion, it's best not to step into a family dispute involving a legal matter, regardless of whom you support. Leave that to the lawyers.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) An awkward situation presents the usually socially savvy Scorpion with a problem. But a courteous and considerate approach soon helps clear the air and ease communication.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A calmer, less-tense atmosphere prevails through much of the week, allowing you to restore your energy levels before tackling a new challenge coming up by week's end.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your approach to helping with a friend or family member's problem could boomerang unless you take time to explain your method and how and why it (usually!) works.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Someone who gave you a lot of grief might ask for a chance for the two of you to make a fresh start. You need to weigh the sincerity of the request carefully before giving your answer.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Too much fantasizing about an upcoming decision could affect your judgment. Better to make your choices based on what you know now rather than on what you might learn later.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a way of seeing the best in people and helping them live up to their potential.

Women's Fund Tiara 5K Mother's Day Race

Registration is now open for the 8th Annual Women's Fund Tiara 5K Mother's Day Race, Walk and Fun Run. The Women's Fund Tiara Race Team is in full training mode as they prepare for the 8th Annual Women's Fund Tiara 5K, walk and fun run, to take place on Mother's Day, Sunday May 11. As in prior years, the race will start and finish at the Oxford Creamery in Mattapoisett. Registration opens at 7:00 am, with the Children's Fun Run starting at 9:00 am and the 5K starting at 9:30 am.

Many friends and family have made Mother's Day morning with the Women's Fund Tiara 5K their annual tradition. A scenic course, festive t-shirts, music and kids activities draw an enthusiastic crowd. Through the efforts of these runners and walkers and many generous sponsors, the Women's Fund Tiara 5K has become the largest fundraising activity of the Women's Fund, as well as its signature event. Last year's event attracted close to 1,000 participants and raised over $40,000. Join us now and register at www.womensfundtiara5k.com. Registration is $20 for the 5K and $5 for the kid's fun run. Starting May 1, 5K registration increases to $30, so register early. T-shirts will be provided to the first 300 5K registrants.

The mission of the Women's Fund at the Community Foundation of Southeastern Massachusetts is to advance the educational attainment and economic security of women and girls in Southeastern MA. Organized by a committed "Tiara Team" of volunteers, the Women's Fund Tiara 5K began seven years ago to offer women and their families the opportunity to engage in a philanthropic, family friendly, Mother's Day activity on a day that celebrates women and motherhood. Revenue from the Tiara 5K will support all Women's Fund activities.

Celebrate Mother's Day in a different way this year. No breakfast in bed. No sleeping in. Instead, wrap around Ned's Point lighthouse with your family and loved ones in Mattapoisett at the 8th Annual Women's Fund Tiara 5K. You don't have to clock your fastest time - just the best time with those you love!

birds they loved. The house and barns are now private property and a local farmer maintains the fields in season.

Winter is a wonderful time to hike across the main field to walk the relatively flat trail through pinewoods and into the frozen swampy land that abuts the Mattapoissett River. Folks should dress for the weather of the day, as the hike will go on rain, shine, sleet or snow!

Participants may see tracks of deer, fox, coyote, or squirrel. Many wintering birds may be seen or heard in the woods or along the field edges.

This is the second in a series of walks sponsored by RLT to highlight properties included in their booklet, Explore Rochester. The booklet, now in its second printing, was a joint effort of the RLT and the Rochester Conservation Commission's Open Space Action Committee. Copies of the booklet are available at the Town Hall Annex and will also be available on the day of the walk.

So come out and enjoy a walk in the woods with fellow naturalists!

of the Tri-Town area, and must have demonstrated service to the community. Special consideration will be given to those looking to a career in an eyesight-related field.

To obtain an application, learn more about this Award, or to learn how to become a member of the Lions Club, visit our website www.mattapoissettlionsclub.org. Award applications are also available through the guidance department at your high school. Applications may also be obtained by calling Helene Rose at 508-758-9841. Applications must be received by March 30.

Gateway Youth Hockey

Mite Bobcats: The Mite Bobcats defeated the SC Panthers, 28-8. Matt Paling opened the scoring off the face off and ended with five goals. Juni Suarez, Krystian Pothel and Derek Gauvin all had hat tricks. Patrick Tripp and Jared Frates had two goals apiece and goaltender Charlie Carroll made 40 saves in the win.

Mattapoissett Democratic Town Committee

The Mattapoissett Democratic Town Committee will hold a caucus meeting on February 22 at 10:15 am. The meeting will be held in the lower level conference room at the Mattapoissett Public Library.

Journey to Japan

Journey to Japan with Rick DaSilva: Thursday, February 27, 6:30 pm at the Elizabeth Taber Library.

A native of Marion, Rick DaSilva has been teaching history at Tabor Academy for the past decade after graduating in 1989. Since he's been at Tabor, he's taught Ancient and Modern World History courses as well as Asian History as an elective. Over the past eight years, mostly through the support of Tabor, Rick has visited Asia a number of times with stops in China, Thailand, Cambodia, Tibet and most recently Japan. Rick's experiences abroad have shaped the way he teaches, as well as his perspective as a traveler of Asia. Rick's hobby is photography, and it's through his images that he expresses his appreciation and interest in Asian history, culture and people.

Please join us for this special talk on Thursday, February 27, at 6:30 pm, when Rick will share his experiences touring Japan this past summer. This trip, backed by the National Consortium for the Teaching about Asia (NCTA) and the Fulbright-Hays Group Study Abroad Program, sent Rick and 11 other educators from all over the country on a month-long study tour. Rick will be discussing the trip and its purpose as well as his own personal experiences through discussion and sharing his images.

ORCTV 2014 Annual Meeting

Old Rochester Community Television will hold its annual meeting on Saturday, March 22 at 1:00 pm at the ORCTV Studio located at 345 Front St. in Marion. This meeting will include the election of officers to the Board of Directors.

The nominees are: Mike Parker - Membership Seat; Jay Pateakos - Marion; Bunny Mogilnicki - Rochester; Mike Botelho - Mattapoissett.

All current Old Rochester Community Television members are encouraged to participate in this event. If you are a current member who needs to renew your membership or would like to become a new member, the membership fee is $5 per person or $5 per family. Area not-for-profit organizations may also become members for a fee of $5. Tri-Town seniors can become ORCTV members for a fee of $1, and the membership fee for area businesses is $75 per year.

One note to our current members: If you signed up prior to January 1, 2014 your membership must be renewed at this time. Annual membership to ORCTV runs concurrent with the calendar year - January through December.

Thank you and we are looking forward to meeting with all of you on March 22.

Mattapoissett Congregational Pancake Supper

The Mattapoissett Congregational Church will hold a Pancake Supper on Tuesday, March 4 from 5:30 - 7:00 pm at Reynard Hall, 27 Church St. in Mattapoissett. All are welcome to attend for pancakes, sausage, toppings, drinks and good conversation. There will be a freewill offering to help support the missions trip to The Craddock Center in Georgia.

For more information, please call the church office, Monday through Friday, 9:00 am 12:00 noon at 508-728-2671.

Rochester Country Fair Dance

The Rochester Country Fair will be hosting a "Team Spirit" Theme Dinner Dance Fundraiser on Saturday, March 1 at the Redmen Hall located at 758 Main Street in Wareham.

Guests are encouraged, but not required, to dress for the occasion. Dig out your high school or college gear from years past - if it still fits - or come dressed like you favorite sport's team. There are lots of possibilities.

The Dinner Dance Fundraiser will kick off the night with a Stuffed Chicken Breast Dinner, prepared by Matt's Blackboard, which will be served at 7:00 pm. Music by "The Relics" will begin at 8:00 pm.

Tickets to attend are $20 each, while supplies last, and must be purchased in advance at either Matt's Blackboard Café, The Hair & Body Solution, both located in Rochester's Plumb Corner Mall, or at The Ponderosa located on Rt. 105 Acushnet / Rochester Line. You may also reach any of the Fair Committee Members.

Donations of raffle items are needed and will help support the Rochester Country Fair. Visit our website www.rochesterma.com for additional event information or support.

Marion Fireworks Committee

The Marion Fireworks Committee will hold the Second Annual Beach Party on Saturday, April 5 at the Marion Music Hall. There will be music, refreshments, an auction and raffle items. Tickets will go on sale in the near future. In order for the fireworks to return for the summer of 2014, your support and donations are needed. All donations are 100% tax deductible. Please make checks payable to Marion Fireworks Committee, 13 Atlantis Drive, Marion, MA 02738. If you have questions or would like to volunteer, please contact the Marion Fireworks Committee at 774-217-8355 or info@marionrecreation.com.

I Found the Aardvark!

Each week, hidden somewhere in the pages of The Wanderer is a tiny drawing of an aardvark. The little guy you are looking for looks exactly like the one pictured above (but don't put down this page as your answer, there's another one hidden somewhere in this issue).

Once you find the aardvark you can submit your answer online and if you are right you will get Aardvark Points! You can then use these points to get cool Aardvark Prizes!

To enter visit: www.wanderer.com and Click on I Found the Aardvark

In the February 13, 2013 issue the Aardvark was on page 51!
